Professor C. S. Hicks, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, read a paper on "The Construction of a College Athletic Field" before the meeting adjourned for lunch. The president's aldress was read by Dr. Charles W. Savage, of Oberlin College, at the opening of the afternoon session, and he was followed by Dr. F. N. Whittier, of Bowdoin College, who spoke on "The Limitation of the Work of the Gymnasium Director." Dr. Whittier had a dry brand of humor that was all his own, and said that the trouble with most physical directome nowadays was that, instead of limiting their work, they were spreading it out, until they were spreading it out, until they were occupying not a chair on the faculty but an entire settee.

Dr. George L. Meylan gave an illustrated talk on the use to which he is putting photography in the physical examination of students at Columbia. It's off. Haven't you heard? Haven't you HEARD? Oh, to be sure, the baldheaded barber of Kewanee sent word from New Orleans last night that he has called off the Willard-Fulton fight that was to have kept the natives of that city talking longer than they did after young Jim Corbett knocked out old John Lawrence Sullivan.

The famed lather puddler went all the way to the Crescent City to hear Tommy Burns and Dominick Tortorich whisper the information that the town whisper the information that the town had remained perfectly normal after the Willard-Fulton proclamation. In-stead of declaring the date set for the ster graduation is a factor, he said, the willard-fulton proclamation, that is of much significance in military preparedness.

One of the chief contributions which the colleges can make toward a state of the bout a city, state and national holiday, the Barnum-proof inhabitants broke right out in a snicker and said. "Isn't the barber the sly old dog, to think that we would fall for his personally conducted extravaganza." Reversal Surprise of Day in Junior National Lawn Tennis Tourney.

PLAYERS REACH THE SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Weber and Cutler Show Well in Winning Their Matches at 7th Regiment Armory.

By FRED HAWTHORNE,

Merritt Cutler, of Pratt Institute, Bullet, Bullet, Finland Brooklyn; James Weber, of Andover Academy; H. P. Guiler, of Columbia University and the West Side Tennis Club, and Elliott Binzen, of Fordham University, were the survivors yesterday in the semi-final round of the first annual national indoor junior lawn tennis championship tournament on the board courts of the 7th Regiment 'St Louis. Armory. The boys will meet at 10:30 this morning for the places in the final brackets in the order named.

The doubles were also brought down to the semi-final round, with Weber and R. C. Rand, Guiler and L. Maxwell Banks, Binzen and Harold Taylor and W. M. Webster and H. W. Haldenstein

W. M. Webster and H. W. Haldenstein occupying the brackets, to meet in that order this morning. The final in the doubles will be played this afternoon and the final match in the singles tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Binzen provided the sensation of the day by his decisive defeat of Banks, the Adelphi Academy boy. The latter was regarded as a likely finalist by those who have been watching the progress of the tournament, yet Binzen simply walked away with the match, winning by a score of 6-0, 6-2. He undoubtedly will have a sterner task to-day, when he faces Guiler for the draw. Guiler, who gained his place on Tues-

Guiler, who gained his place on Tuesday, has been displaying good form in his march to the semi-finals. Coached for the last two years by George Agutter, the professional at the West Side Tennis Club, Guiler has a command of stroke and a coolness under fire that speak well for Agutter's methods. His match with Binzen to-day is certain to provide sensations for the spectators. Binzen is of the slashing, impetuous school, while Guiler plays with calm deliberation and is adept at placing his returns in the narrowest of openings. The Columbia student, however, lacks the power that Binzen gets into his shots, but his great height and reach partially offset the Fordham youth's speed.

Weber was hard put to it to take the measure of E. L. Hopkins, the Ynle student, at 5-2, 3-6, 7-5, but his work yesterday stamps him as a probable finalist. Cutler, who was rather a "dark horse" when the tournament begaan, came through successfully against W. L. Zohriskie of Trinity.
